

OUT ON THE LIMB
with George Vienhus

FOURTH OF JULY came and went in Campbell with a minimum of fanfare, except in some isolated instances where neighborhood groups got together, such as the program staged by the residents of Kings and Queen courts.

We thought it particularly apropos that the residents of these two courts marked the 190th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence severing ties with royalty.

Some of the pictorial highlights of the neighborhood bash appear in this issue.

There was a limited amount of bell-ringing throughout the community by individuals as well as by the churches.

But one would be safe in saying that the clanging was not outstanding.

But then there are not too many bells in Campbell to start with.

We must rely on the reports of others as to whether the sound of bells at 11 a.m. on the 'Fourth' penetrated all sections of the city.

Because of circumstances, we heard only one bell.

We assisted Chet Clever and his daughter, Penny, in pulling the bell-rope at the Congregational Church.

We know that one sounded loud and clear, especially in the belfry.

FLAGS were waving on a number of residences and store buildings in town on the 'Fourth'.

But it was far from a spectacular display and many citizens voiced their disappointment.

One party informed us that a perfunctory check of various residential streets indicated that the average was about one flag per block, hardly awe-inspiring.

Another person commented that while the City Hall flag was flying, the flag pole at Campbell's only 'federal' building, the post office, was empty.

As we have admitted before, we are not inhibited when it comes to expressing our patriotism visibly by bell-ringing or flag-waving.

We don't mind a bit being labeled old-fashioned in this respect.

In fact we consider it a compliment.

BANGING of fireworks, on the 'Fourth', on the other hand, leaves us cold, if that is the proper way to describe our reaction.

We have been tabbed an 'old fogey' because of our feeling on the matter and because we have advocated the banning of the sale of the bang-bangs.

It may not be the popular viewpoint but, at least, most fire chiefs are on our side. Here are a few headlines clipped from the papers this year:

Council favors service station

Unless the councilmen have a change of heart between now and their next meeting on July 25, they will overrule the Planning Commission denial of the Planned Development plans for a shopping center complex on W. Hamilton which includes a service station at one intersection.

On Monday night, first reading was given an ordinance that would approve the plans for the development of the Walter Pruvich six-acre parcel on W. Hamilton and the proposed Marathon Dr.

Before the first reading, all five councilmen indicated that they favored approval of the plans including the service station.

The plans had failed to get Planning Commission approval on a 3-2 vote. Commissioners Jack Healey and Kel Young voted for approval with Commissioners Thayer Lyons, Jim Tomlinson and Frank Klein opposing.

The plans were presented at the council meeting by J. L. Thompson, the developer of the parcel. He explained that the project called for an entire package and that each phase was important to the whole.

In giving their reasons for favoring the plans with the gas station, the councilmen emphasized different factors.

REASONS

Councilman Homer Hyde said that he disliked any controls over private business and felt that the modern service stations could be made attractive and

Council okays removing trees -- reluctantly

Sadly the City Council on Monday night bowed to hard, cruel facts, garnered from personal observance and reluctantly approved the removal of the liquid amber trees in the parkway at the Robert L. Roberts residence, 380 Nottingham Ave.

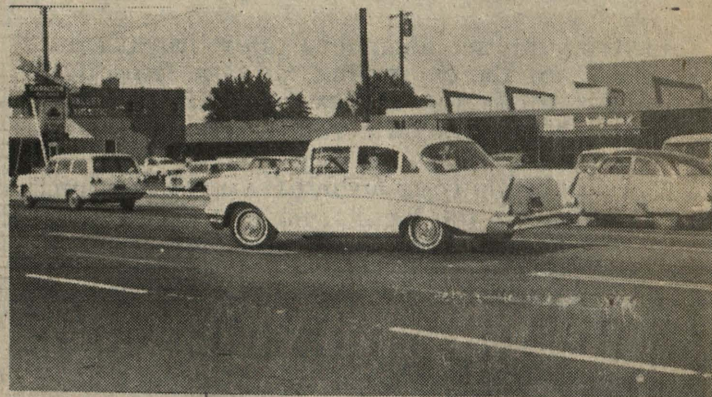

Even the two most tree-conscious members of the city council, Ed Rogers and Charles Rose, agreed that the roots of the trees were raising havoc with the curbs and sidewalks and they had to go.

But in authorizing the removal (at the property owner's expense) the council specified that other trees should be planted in their place.

And the trees should be selected that were suitable for the narrow 2 1/2-foot parkway.

Action on the request for the removal of the trees had been deferred from a previous meeting to allow the councilmen to personally inspect the offending trees.

Councilman Homer Hyde warned his fellow councilmen that he had counted 19 trees on the street that were now or would soon affect the curbs and sidewalks.

Sh! Sh! Sh! S.T. Expressway opens

Surprise! Surprise! Without fanfare or prior notice, traffic began moving on the San Tomas Expressway to Campbell Ave. on Monday morning of this week to the surprise of Campbell city officials as well as County Supervisor Ralph Mehrkens.

But the "surprise party" fell pretty flat as far as local officials were concerned.

The major portion of the expressway that was opened to traffic at 7 a.m. Monday lies within the city limits of Campbell. So Campbell officials have long been anxious to know when the thoroughfare would start dumping traffic on Campbell Ave. so proper controls could be affected.

Now they know.

But it was almost three hours after the first car had traversed the route that the city learned that the barriers had been removed.

An informal request had been made of Supervisor Mehrkens over the weekend to get a definite date anticipating the opening of the expressway so the city officials could prepare for the extra traffic load.

Mehrkens called the city hall Monday morning.

He had just learned that the expressway had been opened early that morning.

Police Chief John Morgan and Bill Wren, director of public works, both involved in the traffic flow, then were informed.

On Monday night, Campbell's City Council took direct aim at the party apparently res-

College board re-elects Brydon; sets November 8 for bond vote

Robert W. Brydon, Campbell orchardist, was re-elected chairman by his fellow members of the Board of Trustees of West Valley Junior College at the annual organizational meeting Thursday night.

The board also decided that it would ask the Board of Supervisors to set a bond election for the West Valley Junior College District on the Nov. 8 general election ballot. The amount of the bond issue will be determined later.

This action came after the Board was told that it must make a decision before Aug. 8 if the matter is to be on the November ballot.

Dr. Edwin C. Browne, retired educator of Los Gatos, was again chosen vice-chairman, Donald E. Lindstrom, Santa Clara, was named clerk, and William J. Homan, San Jose, was reappointed representative to the Santa Clara County Committee. Dr. Wallace W. Hall, college president, was reappointed secretary of the board. The board also voted to continue meeting on the first and third Thursdays of each month at 7:30 p.m.

In another matter, the board deferred until its first meeting in August any action on final selection of a name for the Santa Clara campus. Deferral came because two board members were absent.

Dr. Gordon D. Aumack, acting as board secretary in the absence of Dr. Hall, who is on vacation, reported that a Higher Education Bond Issue would be on the state ballot in the November election, but it contained no funds for junior colleges.

A simple solution

More and more in this era of entangling governmental agencies we are becoming provoked by the lack of cooperation, coordination and communication among the various agencies that supposedly represent various segments of the same general area.

Especially are we concerned with the operation of the many different agencies within the confines of Santa Clara County.

In too many instances, in our opinion, various tax-supported entities go their merry way without giving proper consideration to what their actions might have on other agencies that are also serving the people.

And often it is the same tax-payer who pays the freight.

There have been cases when a costly duplication of effort could have been avoided, if one agency had informed another agency what was going on.

Unfortunately, there have been times also when one tax-base agency has been so intent upon improving its own fiscal position that, instead of offering another tax-supported body a financial break, there is competitive bidding and it is the tax-payer himself who takes the beating.

While we recognize that each bureaucracy should run its operation on an efficient and business-like manner, we are convinced that exceptions should be made in any dealings between district and county, city and county and city and city, provided the citizen tax-payer in any of the subdivisions involved will benefit.

Admittedly this sounds much easier than it can be done, for the entangling red tape from the local up to the federal level makes even the most simple operation a complicated one.

Currently there is an interesting situation developing on the local front that illustrates to a certain degree what we are attempting to point out here, although there are a number of unusual ramifications involved not present in other cases.

For some time the City of Campbell has studied the possibility of extending Latimer Ave. through to Central Ave. Naturally this involves the purchase of property.

One of the parcels involved is at 237 Central Ave. You may recall the two tragedies that occurred at that location recently.

The long-time occupant and owner of the old, two-story frame house at that location was found dead in the house. Apparently she had been dead for several days before her body was discovered.

Then two weeks later in the middle of the night the house burned to the ground.

Reportedly the owner of the house had no heirs and thus the county probate department entered the picture, as happens in such instances.

The county public administrator handles the estate and, if no heirs come forward, will pay any debts, sell the property and then forward any funds left over to the state controller's office.

It has been reported that the fire insurance on the building will naturally be collected by the administrator and be part of the estate.

We assume the procedure of the county department under ordinary conditions would be to go through the process of putting the property on the market, getting the best price possible for it then put this amount with other estate money and send a check to Sacramento for the total. There it will become part of the millions that the state controller's office collects each year.

We also assume that the county administrator will probably ask the city to make an offer for the property. It is pretty well established that parcel will be needed eventually, if Latimer is to go through.

The city then will have to make an appraisal, then make an offer if the property is desired, which may or may not be approved.

In our opinion, based on the facts as we know them, it would make good sense for the county probate department to offer the city the property for one dollar or whatever minimum amount would be necessary to make the sale legal.

There, of course, may be complications that we don't know about, for intra-governmental transactions can become mighty involved.

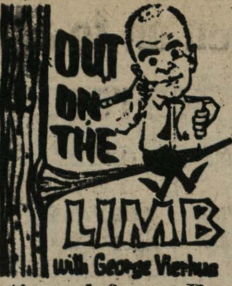

Our point is, of course, a selfish one as a citizen and tax-payer of the City of Campbell.

But governmental operation should be for the benefit of the people.

The few thousands of dollars that are involved in this affair, in our opinion, would be far more beneficial, if used to improve a situation in Campbell than, if dumped into the state controller's coffers for statewide distribution.

On the other hand, our solution may be too simple.

LIVING DANGEROUSLY is the way someone described the new two-way left turn lane traffic pattern installed on Winchester Blvd. between Latimer and Hamilton.

But really, we will have to go along with Bill Wren, public works director, it is not as bad as it looks.

It is like going off the high diving board for the first time. Once you get used to the idea, it is pretty smooth.

Visions of meeting another car head-on in the same lane can give a person some bad dreams.

But, as Wren explains, in actual practice it works efficiently when people use the lane as intended.

And most do, Bill reassures us.

THAT DRIVE-IN THEATER which has been approved by the county near the freeway off Union Ave. and McGlincey Lane is now involved with some complicated planning and design problem that are giving the theater owners some serious headaches.

Ordinarily we recognize the difficulties that a developer faces in guiding his plans through the official bodies involved. We generally sympathize with him because of the bureaucratic roadblocks that are thrown up.

But somehow we cannot work up any sympathy in this instance.

As you well know, the county supervisors and planning commission approved the drive-in despite Campbell's vigorous objections.

True, the location is within county jurisdiction, although it is virtually an island surrounded by Campbell. But its problems, after it is operating, will be strictly Campbell's and not the county's.

The drive-in theater is being pushed and pushed hard despite the fact that it is contrary to Campbell's master plan for the area.

We note that soon the supervisors and members of the Campbell City Council are scheduled to have a joint meeting to discuss mutual problems.

Campbell gets $29,271 in fees

Campbell's share of the June payment of the state motor vehicle license fees was $29,271.60, according to State Controller Alan Cranston.

The June payment was part of the $124,538.60 apportioned for the year to this city based on the population figure of 21,800. In April $95,267 was advanced to the city.

California cities and counties collected $176 million in fees during the 1965-66 fiscal year which is $14 million more than in the previous year.

The money is distributed in three payments, December, April and June. It amounts to $6.24 for each city resident and $4.72 for each county resident.

YAGER ELECTRIC CO.

E. Yager

One of the largest and most firmly established electrical contracting organizations headquartered in the Campbell area is Yager Electric Co. with handsome new quarters at 1260 Dell Ave.

The primary concern of Yager Electric Co. is new installation and the firm has the facilities and the staff to successfully undertake jobs of any complexity whether it be residential, commercial or industrial. While new installation accounts for the bulk of work performed by Yager Electric, they are equally adept at rewiring jobs such as the introduction of 20 volt systems to accommodate air conditioning units and the many other electrical appliances which provide the new found convenience and comfort to the modern place of business or home.

Yager Electric Co. under the leadership of owner Edward M. Yager has achieved a prominent position among the contracting firms of the Santa Clara Valley and demonstrates the manner in which Campbell is rapidly moving from farming community to the center of industrial and commercial life in the Valley. Mr. Yager is to be commended not only for the manner in which he has directed his firm to its preeminence in its field but also for his contributions to the civic activities of Campbell and we wish for him and his firm years of continued growth with the area.

As an added service to residents of the area, Saliccia Bros. Hancock offers trailers and truck rental facilities on both a one-way basis to any point in the nation or for local use. As one of the top 100 U-Haul trailer agencies in the nation, and the largest between San Jose and Santa Cruz, Saliccia Bros. offers a complete selection of all sizes open and padded vans and trailers, as well as car top carriers and trucks ranging from the Econoline to models large enough to move an entire household of furniture. Council favors this should be regulated at the planning commission level.

Councilman Charles Rose listed the economic factor involved in that a service station has a major role in the overall financing of the entire project.

Councilman Ed Rogers argued that there should be city control of stations but claimed that it would be an injustice to the property owner, based on previous actions, if this particular station was not approved. He disagreed with the theory that the city should be concerned any way in the financing.

Councilman Bill Smeed also maintained that the city should have controls over gas station locations and emphasized that more stress should be put on architectural controls.

Mayor Ralph Doetsch also indicated that the circumstances in this case apparently called for approval of the plans because of the city's previous actions.

FIRST READING

The council also gave first reading to three zoning change ordinances which in all probability will be adopted also at the July 25 meeting.

The ordinances included a modification in the lot size for CM zoning for Jack Craig at 1334 Dell Ave; change in zone from R-1 to P-O and R-3 for property of John C. Vierhus on E. Campbell Ave. and a change from C-1-S to C-2-S for property at W. Campbell and San Tomas Rd. owned by Vaughn Prettyman.

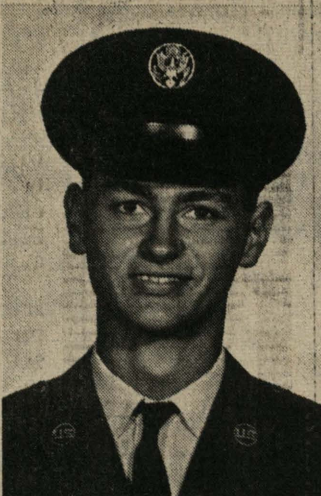

Residents adjacent to the Bucknall School objected to the zone change on San Tomas Rd. because they felt that it would increase traffic on the street. They filed a petition after the ordinance was read containing 59 names.

The petition specified that the signers objected to any building or construction that would be detrimental to the school in that it would cause a nuisance and a safety hazard. Councilmen, as had the planning commissioners, indicated that the contemplated zone change would have no bearing on the traffic on the street which is planned as a 90-foot thoroughfare.

First reading was also given an annexation ordinance which would bring property along White Oaks into the city. As the property is now zoned industrial in the county, the council went on record favoring such zoning when the area officially becomes part of the city.

Mrs. Chris Winovich, of 840 Hoffman Ln., which is sub-standard and undedicated residential street, in an incorporated area adjacent to the annexation expressed concern as to whether trucks would use the residential street.

She was informed that this was unlikely. The city had been instrumental in getting the concession from the state to keep White Oaks open to Camden it was pointed out. It was also added that the city had no control over a county street.

OTHER ACTIONS

In other actions, the council directed the city staff to proceed with negotiations in the acquisition of the late Minnie Neff property on Central Ave. and directed City Attorney Joe Bonacina and staff members to use all legal means to protest the proposed drive-in theater on Union Ave.

Planning Commission approves residence for college offices

West Valley College won approval of the Planning Commission last week to rent the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Guilbert, of 110 Latimer, for office space for the next three years.

Bruce Allen, San Jose attorney and college board member, appeared before the commission on behalf of the application for the necessary use permit. Allen explained the request was similar to others approved for the college in the past in an effort to find needed office space for faculty members while the college is temporarily located in Campbell.

Commissioner Jim Tomlinson, as he has in each previous case, asked if it was possible to define "temporary". He explained that the indefiniteness of the college stay in Campbell handicaps any master plan development for the city.

Allen was sympathetic with the city's position but could not help much. He said the "stay" would be at least three years after the successful passage of a bond issue. In the meantime the college must continue to educate the students and find classroom space. The mobile classrooms constructed on the old Campbell Grammar School site will alleviate some of the crowded conditions, Allen added, but office space also must be found.

Before the commission granted the use permit, Chairman Hal Lee noted for the record that under city ordinances residences cannot be used for offices. But exceptions have been approved for the college because of the dire need.

The approval was granted for three years with the specifications that the yard be cleared of grass and debris and material in storage in the building be removed. Shrubbery in front must also not exceed 3 1/2 feet and the parking areas improved.

Another condition levied was that a storm drain fee of $460 would be levied. This amount could be paid in installments, Guilbert was informed, if the City Council approved.

In other matters, the commission: --APPROVED the building plans submitted by James Daly for a restaurant at 51 W. Latimer just west of Winchester Blvd. The commission added the proviso that the sign proposed should be adequate to carry advertising for future additions planned at Campbell Shopping Center.

--APPROVED the zone change application of Balaw and Sonden (from R-1 to R-3-S) on property located at 1301 Union Ave. The applicants informed the commission that because of the loss of property taken for street purposes in the new improvement district, more area was needed in R-3 zoning for the convalescent home that was planned on the site.

Planning Commission on to act on Second Jack-in-the-Box request

Campbell will have a second "Jack-in-the-Box" drive-through restaurant, if the Planning Commission approves the plans for one on Bascom Ave. next Monday night, July 18.

In a previous action, a request for zone change (from C-1-S to C-2-S) on W. Campbell Ave. near San Tomas Rd. to allow a "Jack-in-the-Box" at that location was approved. (On Monday night the City Council gave first reading to the zone change ordinance.)

The drive-through restaurant is planned for 1727 Bascom Ave. next to the present shopping area across from the Hamilton Plaza Shopping Center and is directly south of the location which was approved in February of this year. A residence and garage are now on the parcel.

Also on the Planning Commission agenda is a zone change request of Wallace D. Perry for property at 1520-1554 Pollard Rd. The property in question is in the process of being annexed to the city and marks the first pre-zoning of property proposed to be annexed to the city that has come before the Planning Commission.

Perry, the applicant, plans to construct a convalescent hospital on the property, according to his application.

In another "first", Walter V. Hays is requesting a use permit to allow a pet clinic in a C-1-S zone at 1590 La Pradera Dr. Recently the city adopted an ordinance amending allowing pet clinics (with use permit) in C-1-S zones. Hays had requested the ordinance to be amended.

WVJC board buys Santa Clara acreage; bond election date set

In the first meeting of the new fiscal year last Thursday, West Valley board of trustees renamed Bob Brydon chairman and set November 8 as the date for the district bond election.

In other matters the board:

1.) Approved financial claims against the district totaling $102,693.58 including a $31,500 item for 3 1/2 acres of the Hunter Ranch property, part of the proposed Santa Clara campus site.

2.) Approved an agreement with Dr. Robert M. Wade of Campbell for the position of school physician for the school year at a cost of $2,400.

3.) Approved the request of James P. Hardy, dean of business services, for an increase in the revolving cash fund for payment of small bills from $1,500 to $2,500.

4.) Deferred an agreement with the Bronco Bench Foundation for use of Buck Shaw Stadium for five football games during the coming season. Only four board members were present, and one of them, Trustee Ed Panelli, disqualified himself from voting because he is secretary of the Bronco Bench Foundation. The matter will be taken up at the next board meeting.

5.) Granted recognition for the coming school year to two teacher organizations, the West Valley College Chapter, California Teachers Association, and the West Valley College Faculty Association.

6.) Authorized renewal of an agreement with the County Superintendent of Schools for audio visual services for the district during the coming year at a cost of $1,000.

7.) Agreed to a revision of the existing contract with the California State Personnel Board for providing standardized tests for job applicants, in the district. The changes were proposed by the state to meet legal and additional cost requirements.

8.) Approved an agreement between the district and the California Real Estate Commissioner for expansion of the real estate curriculum at the college. Under the agreement, the Commissioner reimburses the district up to $900 to aid in expansion and improvement of the instructional program.

9.) Voted to continue rentals of seven properties making up part of the proposed Saratoga campus site for another 90 days, through Sept. 30, to Mrs. Ruth Carlson, from whom the property was purchased, at 13926 Fruitvale Ave.

The motorist who wants the family auto in capable hands is assured of this when he calls upon the services of Vern Harrington, the personable proprietor of Sunny Oaks Auto and Truck Repair, with shops at 180 E. Sunny Oaks Ave.

By training and long experience Mr. Harrington is exceptionally well qualified to undertake all types of mechanical work on both domestic and foreign automobiles as well as light trucks. Whether it be tune-up, brake work or even complete motor reconditioning, Sunny Oaks Auto & Truck Repair can be counted on for a thoroughly satisfactory job that will give the car or truck owner lasting satisfaction. Of special importance to the car owner is the assurance that at Sunny Oaks Auto & Truck Repair he can be sure that all work will be done by Mr. Harrington personally.

In addition to the recognition accorded Vern Harrington as a top flight mechanic, he is getting quite a reputation as a fisherman, too, and his Sunny Oaks Auto & Truck Repair is closed this week so that he can spend a well deserved week working hard at his favorite avocation. We wish him success as mechanic and fisherman.

RECEPTION UNLIMITED

With the rapid growth of the Santa Clara Valley during the past decade, Campbell has become "home" for a number of enterprises operating beyond the immediate vicinity and prominent among these is Reception Unlimited. This local firm with headquarters at 861 Camden Ave. has experienced rapid expansion during the past several years and is now the premier TV service organization in the entire Valley and the largest volume member of the California State Electronics Association, Santa Clara County Chapter.

The skilled technicians of Reception Unlimited are color TV specialists and so equipped that most repairs may be effected in the home and thus with minimum inconvenience to the set owner. This is made possible by the fleet of trucks maintained by Reception Unlimited, each fully equipped with electronic testing devices as well as a full line of parts and tubes. Further assurance of the firm's adeptness at all types of TV service is their designation as factory authorized service representatives for Admiral, Emerson, Motorola, Philco, Westinghouse and Zenith, and, of course, they are completely competent in the repair of all other sets as well.

Heading this leading firm of technicians are three talented young men, each a TV specialist in his own right: Bill Poteet, president; Jim Ballard, vice-president, and Donald Shater, secretary-treasurer. Under their guidance and energetic leadership Reception Unlimited has risen to the forefront of this electronic age industry and we wish them and their Reception Unlimited many years of continued success.

County tax triples in decade as service demands increase

(First of two parts)
California's property taxes, a record $3.3 billion last year for government services, are growing faster than its residents' available income or the state's population.

Santa Clara County's population rose 108 per cent in the last decade, while the state has grown 50 per cent.

Statewide, and in Santa Clara County, property taxes have tripled in the last ten years. Santa Clara County, to match its population growth from 428,000 to 891,000 in 1965, has reported a rise in property taxes from $39.3 million to $174.7 million this year.

The county's average property tax rate is 23 cents above the state average.

The state's population has been expanding about four per cent annually. Its disposable personal income is rising at almost twice that rate. Still, property tax levies have eclipsed both by growing at a nine per cent pace.

A goodly share of Santa Clara County's tax increase represents support of its schools where nearly one out of every three residents is enrolled, above the state average. Sixty-one cents of the county's property tax dollar goes for schools compared to the state average of 52 cents.

How did property taxes get that way?
HOW COME?

George Reilly, State Board of Equalization Chairman, says "The property tax had its American roots in colonial times. It was the best measure then of ability to support local government services."

"Now there are other measures of ability to pay besides property. But the roots of the property tax are deep. To day they support a near-jungle of 5,311 taxing agencies plus city and county governments in California."

These agencies, voted by all or part of a county's residents to supply services from cemeteries to soil conservation, each add pennies to the property tax dollar.

Santa Clara County has 153 tax-levying districts, 50 of them schools. Others include 27 water, drainage or sewer agencies; 23 lighting districts and 11 fire districts.

Reilly believes there is no single answer to the rise of the property tax in an expanding state. "Competing salary costs and the rising price of goods hit county government just as any other business," he says.

SCHOOL'S SHARE
Sixty-one cents of Santa Clara County's property tax dollar last year went for schools, 13 cents to its cities, 22 cents to the county, and four cents to special purpose districts. Santa Clara County's average property tax rate of $8.76 compares to the state average of $8.53.

Has the limit been reached? Reilly doesn't think so although he says property taxes are high enough to require some relief for the aged on fixed incomes.

He cited a recent state senate tax study which showed that 13 other states take a larger share of personal income in property taxes.

And Reilly referred ments, increase rentals, discourage... approval of new bond issues, encourage an exodus of residents, discourage migrants, encourage tax delinquencies and cause a large turnover of supervisors at each election."

Santa Clara County's tax rate is based upon the budgets of its cities, the county, schools and special purpose districts. Reilly advised those who say their taxes are too high to protest at those agencies public budget hearings. "That's where your tax bill really is set."

Since property values vary, it is up to the assessor to peg those values so that each

Dean's List grows at WV College

The number of West Valley College students who made the "Dean's List" this past spring jumped 17 per cent over the fall semester—from 156 to 184, according to Jerry H. Girdner, dean of student personnel.

Five of those students received straight "A's."

The total represents 7.5 per cent of the 4127 day and extended day students at the college. To qualify, a student must maintain a "B" average or better in 12 or more units.

The five straight "A" students are: Mrs. Mary L. Duncan, an English major, of 1056 Rancho Way, San Jose; Mrs. Dorothy E. Mackie, a medical assisting major, of 5048 Bes Estos Dr., San Jose; Michael B. Bogges, a social science major of 3136 Cadillac Dr., San Jose; Mervin W. Meier, an accounting major, of 1361 Phelps Ave., San Jose; and Patrick W. McIntire, a biology major, of 139 Cleland, Los Gatos.

ON CAPITOL

with "Charlie" Gubser

In June the House passed a landmark piece of legislation--

The Freedom of Information Bill. The legislation will require agencies of the executive branch to make all data public except that which has military and diplomatic sensitivity. It will allow a citizen to take the matter to court when an agency refuses him proper public information.

Under the leadership of my colleague from California, Congressman John Moss (D-Sacramento), the case for the Freedom of Information Bill has been building for a dozen years. It recently reached a climax with public resentment of the "credibility gap" about Vietnam. For example, at one time President Johnson said the North Vietnamese have refused all our invitations for "unconditional discussions". Shortly thereafter the State Department was forced to admit that the Hanoi government had actually offered to meet with U. S. representatives at Rangoon in 1964, but was turned down by American officials who were then in the midst of a presidential campaign. Referring to the guarantee of free speech and free press in the Constitution, Congressman Moss told the House: "Inherent in the right of free speech and free press is the right to know. It is our solemn responsibility...to strengthen those rights--to give them meaning." The fight for freedom of information goes a long way back in history. In the late 1600's the British House of Commons and House of Lords prohibited the publishing of their votes and debates, and it was not until the late 18th century that parliamentary proceedings were made public. In the new world, colonial governments were hostile to giving the rank and file citizen a full accounting of action taken by government. In 1671 Governor Berkeley of Virginia wrote: "I thank God, there are no free schools nor printing...for learning has brought disobedience, and heresy, and printing has divulged them." It was not until 1776 that James Otis was successful in getting the proceedings of the Massachusetts General Court open to the public when repeal of the onerous Stamp Act was debated.

Even the deliberations which have produced the Constitution of the United States were closed. Early meetings of the United States Senate were not open to the public, and 177 years ago the House of Representatives came close to excluding the press from its sessions. It was not until the beginning of the 19th century that the press was formally granted admission to both the Senate and House Chambers.

Legislative bodies, thanks to laws like California's Brown Act, have gradually come to the point where full information is freely given to the public. The exceptions to this rule are few and becoming fewer. So now the greatest need is for more revelation of the full truth by the executive branch of government which sometimes operates behind a smokescreen of secrecy.

Since there is no right more essential to the success of a democracy than the right to know, the Freedom of Information Bill may be another milestone in the road toward making our society and our government truly free and open.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

Q. - I will be 65 in a few months, but I plan to continue working. Should I apply for Medicare now or wait until I stop working?
A. - You should apply now. Retirement is not a qualification for Medicare. Nearly everyone 65 or older is eligible for Medicare.
Q. - I received a lump-sum death payment when my husband died. I didn't get any monthly checks, because we had no children. I am 63 years old, but have never applied because I don't want my payments reduced. How does the new law affect me?
A. - You should apply for benefits immediately. Even under the old law, you could get widow's benefits at 62 in the full amount.
Q. - I receive benefits on my husband's earnings record. If we get a divorce, will my benefits continue?
A. - Only if you have been married to him for at least 20 years. If you've been married less than 20 years, your benefits will stop with the month the divorce is granted.

Traffic deaths during 'Fourth' weekend fall below 'normal'

One less person died in California traffic accidents during the recent July 4 weekend than normally is killed in similar mishaps on non-holiday Saturdays, Sundays and Mondays.

This excellent performance was attributed in the main to the fact that 25 per cent of the 1,146,000,000 vehicle miles traveled during the critical period took place on the State's 1900-mile freeway network.

Figures compiled by the Division of Highways in cooperation with the Highway Patrol reveal that only eight of 46 traffic fatalities occurred on freeways.

Figures for a non-holiday Monday show that an average of 13 persons are killed on California's thoroughfares--city streets, county roads and all state highways. On an average Saturday or Sunday, fatalities occur at the rate of 17 per day--one more than the 46 which took place during the highly publicized past weekend.

Moreover, four of the July 4th deaths on freeways were not the type that usually make up the freeway fatality list: Two persons died as the result of burns after their truck--which was not involved in a traffic accident--caught fire and burned. Two pedestrians were killed when struck by a vehicle in the middle of the night in a desert area.

LONGER TRIPS

State Highway Engineer J. C. Womack said that because of the holiday, the average trip was of longer distance and utilized freeways to a greater degree than usual. He added that the record of conventional highways was not nearly as good as the freeways.

For instance, 20 deaths--almost half of the total fatalities--occurred on the 14,640 miles of conventional state highways which carried approximately 25 per cent of the total traffic. This figure bears out the oft-quoted fact that freeways are more than twice as safe as ordinary highways, Womack noted.

The 18 other non-freeway deaths took place on the 139,460 miles of city streets, county roads and miscellaneous thoroughfares in California.

Vehicle miles driven on these roads totalled slightly less than half of the total miles driven by Golden Staters over the holiday weekend, and most of these roads carried less traffic than on a normal working day.

Four of the deaths on conventional highways involved motor cycles; eight resulted from head-on collisions; two from a rear-end collision; two from vehicles running off the road, and three deaths were pedestrian accidents. One fatality resulted from striking a fixed object.

"If you study these facts, you can see that our record was excellent," Womack declared. "But it took the combined efforts of many people to achieve

"The Highway Patrol, city police, county sheriffs and all law enforcement officers deserve a real vote of thanks. They worked long and hard to keep traffic moving, and moving safely."

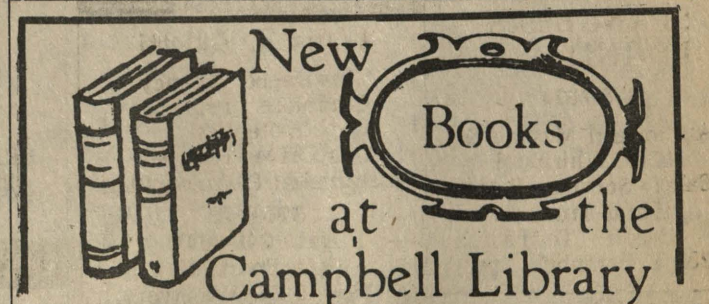

"But most of all, the average driver deserves a pat on the back. The reports that have come in to us from all over the state prove that the public was aware of its responsibilities and is making every effort to fulfill them."

TWO FACTORS

Womack is completely convinced that two factors are required to improve the California traffic safety record--continued awareness on the part of each driver and more freeways. He credits freeways with curtailing the July Fourth deaths and says without them the number probably would have doubled.

He believes that in future years more than 60 per cent of California's driving will be done on freeways.

"They are carrying a quarter of the load right now," he said, "and their accident rate is less than half that of other roads. As traffic shifts to them, our fatality rate is bound to decrease sharply."

GIVE JOY TO MY YOUTH, A Memoir to Dr. Tom Dooley by Teresa Gallagher

This memoir was written by a co-worker of Dr. Dooley's who knew his methods, plans, and whole public career from a very special point of view--she was his volunteer secretary. Teresa Gallagher tells the fascinating story of her experiences with the "splendid American" who made such an impact on young people through his work among the sick and suffering in Laos.

YESTERDAY'S PEOPLE, Life in Contemporary Appalachia by Jack E. Weller

The distinctive way of life of the Southern Appalachian people, who for generations have been isolated from the mainstream of American culture, has often been romanticized, criticized, even derided, but rarely has it been understood.

From his many years of working and living among them, Mr. Weller has gained an intimate insight into their minds and lives. Today the mountain culture is under tremendous pressure to change, but Mr. Weller concludes that no program can succeed unless they display understanding and appreciation of the personality of the Southern highlander and the necessity of preserving his identity.

Santa Clara County ranks fifth in state in licensed drivers

Santa Clara County numbers fifth in the state in licensed drivers, according to Tom Bright, Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles, who has issued a breakdown by county of residence of California's 10 million licenses drivers.

Based on a research sample of 225,000 drivers and population estimates, the breakdown gives Los Angeles County 3.7 million drivers, followed by Orange County (615,000), San Diego (606,300), Alameda (542,900), Santa Clara (484,200), San Francisco (366,800), Sacramento (338,600) and San Bernadino (337,100).

Bright said that although the department issues regular reports on county vehicle registrations, this is the first estimate of county driver population produced by DMV.

"Because of statistical sampling techniques, the estimates for counties with small populations are less accurate than those for larger counties," Bright said.

The Director also published a table from part 3 of DMV's "1964 California Driver Record Study" that classifies California drivers by sex and age.

"The study of 1964 records, compared to a similar study of 1958 records, indicates the driving population has shifted to younger drivers, and to a greater percentage of licensed female drivers," Bright said.

Pacific Telephone plans second business office to serve area

A second Pacific Telephone business office in San Jose to serve the southern part of the city, Campbell, and San Martin, is in the planning stages, Lee Sicard, local manager has announced. The office will be located near the northeast corner of the Leigh and Hamilton avenues intersection in San Jose.

The estimated 58,000 customers in the area are now served out of the downtown office at 190 N. 5th St. That office will continue to serve other portions of San Jose.

Sicard said the company's office plans call for a 22,000 square foot structure on a 145 by 400 foot parcel in the area which is being rezoned from agriculture to commercial. There are no buildings presently in the immediate area.

Company engineers estimated that construction time will be about six months after completion of the negotiations for exercising the option of the property and rezoning.

Manager of the exchange is Lee Sicard, who will supervise about 60 Pacific Telephone employees at the new location. His exchange serves Campbell, part of San Jose and San Martin including all customers whose prefixes are 371, 377, 378, 379, 225, 227, 264, 265, 266, 269, and 683.

An architect will be retained shortly to design the building, Sicard said.

ers," Bright said. He explained that 53.4 per cent of all Californians under 20 years of age were licensed in 1958, compared to 56.7 per cent in 1964.

Female drivers increased from 38.6 per cent of all drivers in 1958 to 41.9 per cent in 1964.

The state's driving population over 65 years old also made a large jump - from 39.4 per cent of the civilian population in 1958, to 43.4 per cent in 1964.

Bright said the average driving age in California is 39.88. The average age for male drivers is 40.34 years old, and for females 39.26. The age of state drivers at the data's statistical midpoint (median) is 35.45 years old.
